Monitoring in energy infrastructures and plants

SMART Direct current measurement technology

Your challenge, our answer

- The future of urban and metropolitan transport lies on rail (Institute for Mobility Research (ed.) study "Scenarios for the year 2030" ).
- Each local operator must adapt to the individual needs of its residents in order to successfully establish and expand a mass transit system.
- Governmental, geographic and technical conditions and last but not least technical philosophies are described in requirements by the operator.
- Our answer to these diverse requirements is modularity and efficient adaptation and use of IT systems.
