Executive Director at the Construction and Infrastructure Centre of
Vocational Excellence
(ConCOVE Tūhura)

Katherine Hall is the Executive Director of Construction and Infrastructure Centre of Vocational Excellence, known as ConCOVE Tūhura. At ConCOVE Katherine leads a passionate team tasked with reimagining vocational education for construction and infrastructure through industry-led, action research. ConCOVE has a particular focus on supporting three priority groups; Māori, Pasifika and women, to progress and thrive in the construction and infrastructure sector.

Katherine holds a Master's in Technological Futures and is known for her ability to disrupt through connecting people and initiatives, she's laser focussed on deduplication of effort and driving for real, equitable, outcomes. Katherine gets shit done.

In a past life Katherine led the People Development workstream in the Construction Sector Accord, a government-industry partnership to transform the sector, housed within the Ministry of Business, Innovation and Employment. In this time Katherine supported the development of a Construction Diversity Roadmap and skills strategy.
