Product Description (max. 15 lines)

Fuelics is a deep tech R&D company specialized in designing, prototyping and industrializing Edge Computing Battery Operated Sensors accompanied with our Edge Platform that provides either an end to end service or seamless integration with third party platforms.

Our sensors deliver a 10years of operation over a battery and exhibit edge computing capabilities, whereas our technology stack allows remote management of the sensors and Firmware over the air capability.

Fuelics has a Smart City Sensor Portfolio including:

- An occupancy sensor for parking space management based on magnetometer technology
- A waste sensor for waste level management on overground and underground waste containerd
- A water level sensor for level management of water reservoirs

Fuelics excels in fuel level management of stationary diesel tanks. Utilizing an end to end solution Fuelics promotes the digital transformation of the refuelling management sector, by introducing repository management and optimised tanker routing. In this field Fuelics offers:

d) An Ultrasonic Edge computing level sensors for level management of stationary diesel tanks
