

Jakob Eckardt

Consultant - Energy and Climate Policy at adelphi

Jakob Eckardt is an energy policy consultant at adelphi, a Berlin-based think-and-do tank on climate, environment and development. In his role at adelphi, Jakob supports the German government's bilateral energy cooperation with partner countries in the field of offshore wind energy, including publishing reports on offshore wind energy and related supply chains in Germany and internationally. Before joining adelphi, he conducted research on carbon pricing policy and climate and energy governance at the University of Potsdam, Germany, and holds a Master of Arts in Political Science.
